

Where I'm From
by Billy Little

I am from the foothills of the North Georgia mountains, from tractors and barns.

I am from a chicken farm at the southern foot of the Appalachian Trail.

Rolling hills, chicken feed, sounds like clucking hens.

I am from mud puddles on dirt roads.

I am from hard work and southern cooking,
from Billy and Paula.

I'm from the farmer and the secretary

From Go Dawgs! and breathe in, breathe out, and move on.

I'm from the Catholic church and the wrestling mat.

I'm from Dawsonville, Georgia

chicken wings and anything on the grill.

I am from daylight, roll your shoulder in, reverse cross
face, trap,

pinch headlock and take down.
